...BREVITIES

John J. Ryan, noted for his connection with a get-rich-quick concern, has been ruled out of the turf by Judge Francis Trevelyan for alleged wenching in the Latoria ring.

Because the color line is drawn so tightly in this country, Jack Johnson, the colored champion, will go to England, where fighters are not so particular. Johnson is one of the cleverest big men with his fists in America, and should give a good account of himself across the pond.

The winter hammer squad is busy knocking the foul strike rule, but the chances are that it will stand next season just the same as last. Chief Zimmerman comes forward with a suggestion that the foul territory be increased by moving the lines away from first and third base. The bases would then be wholly within fair ground. To this proposition third basemen vehemently protest. They maintain that they have enough ground to cover as it is, and that an enlargement of their field would add greatly to the difficult work they now have to perform.

Young Corbett is going home to Denver. He will undergo a long and careful training in his mountain home in hope of reducing weight and getting back into something like his old time form. The opinion prevails that Corbett has shot his bolt and that his chances of ever regaining feather-weight honors have gone forever.

Jas. J. Corbett is said to have been offered a five year contract with David Belasco. As an actor man, the ex-champion is there with the punch, all right. Corbett has all the physical attributes of the stage hero. He is tall, graceful, active, enthusiastic and has a "perfect love of a smile." Also he is traveling on his merit as an actor and not on his former reputation as a pugilist.

Jas. Edward Britt picks "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien to conquer Fitzsimmons in the coming bout between these big fellows. The last winner that Britt picked lost the fight in the 18th round.

The National Sporting Club of London is trying to arrange a match between Battling Nelson and Jabez White. Jimmy Britt defeated White in San Francisco in 29 rounds several months ago. He is long and lanky, fights at arm's length, and can stand a fair amount of punishment.

Harvard will probably have to go into the game with Pennsylvania to-day minus an experienced fullback. Carr injured his thigh in the game with Brown and is no longer a possibility. Paul broke his collar bone in the game with the Indians and Guild is laid up with a damaged thigh. Hanley, the fullback on the second team, will probably be pressed into service.

In the game between Columbia and Yale, the sons of Eli made gains of 574 yards through the red and white lines, in contrast to 9 1/2 yards gained by the Columbians. On 18 kicks and kick-offs from Columbia, Yale ran back the ball 216 yards, while Columbia came back only 54 yards on 11 kicks.

"Tad" Jones, Yale's fast quarterback, is laid up with a badly sprained ankle, and may not be in condition for either of the Princeton or Harvard games.

Manager Nolan certainly has his eye out for the coin. He is willing to match Nelson against McGovern to fight six rounds in Philadelphia, but thinks a purse of $8,000 entirely too small for a limited round bout.

Yale men charge Columbia players with deliberate attempts to injure them in the game last Saturday. The New Haven players are very bitter over the treatment they received at the hands of the Morningside eleven and refuse to play Columbia next season.

Since "Ducky" Holmes has acquired the managerial bee he doubts his ability to "keep in condition" for another season of major league baseball. Must expect a roar from Comiskey when he puts in a request for a release.

Carl Green, manager of the Boston Americans, quits the base ball game.

MOST ANYTHING

A Word from Josh Wise.

It's better to be right than lucky.

Half the guests at the wedding reception of two Ohio Spiritualists were spirits. You can always be sure of finding a lot of knockers at an affair of that kind.

Former President Alexander, of the Equitable, gave away practically all of his salary while in office. Looks as though he gave away everything that came in.

The czar has given another pledge of more reforms. The czar is becoming the John L. Sullivan of Europe.

Giving the Latest Returns. As to him, S. B. Norris sold the hen that laid the large egg mentioned some time ago, but he now owns a hen, 1/2 Plymouth Rock and 1/2 Leghorn, that was hatched May 18th, and has laid an egg every day since October 15th and up to the date of our report, October 27th. We will make inquiry later and see if she continues her efforts to smash egg prices at the age of only five months. Later—She continues to lay an egg every day—Orville (O.) Courier.

"My father-in-law gave me a deed to a fine place on the best street in town."

"You must have a staunch friend in him."

"Sure. He's a friend in deed."

Some of the big insurance companies evidently forgot to contribute to some campaign.

President Roosevelt told a delegation from Oklahoma and Indian Territory that he favored single statehood. But in doing that he wasn't receding from his position on race suicide.

I sympathize with those poor Russians," remarked Mrs. Smithers.

"What poor Russians?" asked Smithers.

Those who are demanding a voice in the government."

"You can bet you do. So does every other woman when it's a question of having a voice in anything."

How Cold Must It Be? Editor Most Anything:

Don't dodge. Don't try to throw the responsibility on somebody else. Answer the question. How cold must it be to be twice as cold as two degrees above zero?

J. D. K. Editor Most Anything:

J. D. K. must be pretty thick. The answer to his question is zero.

N. L. Editor Most Anything:

Two degrees below zero is twice as cold as two above zero. J. D. K. should go to school a few weeks. C. P. M.

E. J. B. thinks J. D. K.'s initials answer the question, and that it must be Just Durned Cold.

"How's old Slicker?"

"He's falling fast."

"Trying to beat his creditors, I suppose."

"My grandfather offered me $100,000 if I wouldn't go on the stage."

"Why didn't you take it?"

"I can make as much money on the stage."

"Oh, your grandfather offered you stage money, did he?"

Some of the dramatic critics declare Bernard Shaw is hypocrite. Impossible. Mr. Shaw may be many things, but a man who wears such whiskers as he does can't be a hypocrite.

Keeping an Eye on Louis. By some means or other it happens that every time Louis Harris, of Mineral Springs, comes on this side of the creek he gets a lot of bewilderment that he wanders around in such a way that when he comes fairly to himself he finds himself bidding somebody adieu at D. D. L. gate—Caroline Chapel (Tenn.) News.

Gathering of the Shorts. Miss Jennie Short spent last week with her cousins, Misses Myrtle and Alice Rundt—Chagrin Falls (O.) Exponent.

King Alfonso greeted King William with a kiss. Now you can see what that Paris scientist meant when he talked about kissing.

Son Lost Mother. "Consumption runs in our family, and through it I lost my mother," writes E. B. Reid, of Harmony, Mo. "For the past five years, however, on the slightest sign of a Cough or Cold, I have taken Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which has saved me serious lung trouble."

The girls of Richmond, Ind., have boycotted high school boys who are trying to raise side whiskers. And yet there are people who say that there can be no such thing as a popular boycott.

"Well, I see 'Fighting Bob' has an other scrap on his hands."

"Is that so? I thought he'd conduct himself with more dignity after being made admiral."

"What are you talking about?"

"Well, the position of admiral in the navy."

"Who's an admiral?"

"Fighting Bob Evans, of course."

"Oh, I'm talking about 'Fighting Bob' Fitzsimmons."
